

August 8, 1916

DR. JONES PASSES AWAY

RESPECTED GROTON CITIZEN
CROSSES THE DIVIDE
THIS MORNING.

Following an illness which had kept him confined to his bed a large share of the time, the result of an attack of paralysis some two years ago, Dr. J. D. Jones passed away at his home in Groton, this morning at 6:20 o'clock.

The Doctor had for a long time been having spells of serious illness during which his life was many times despaired of, but he always rallied and would be up and around and down town, but this last attack overcame his vitality and he was unable to throw it off.

The funeral will be held from the house Thursday afternoon, at 2 o'clock and from the church at 2:30, Rev. T. Reber Taggart officiating, and interment will be in the Groton union cemetery, beside the remains of his wife who preceded him to the grave about one year.

Dr. Jones was among the older Groton residents, having come to Groton with his family, from Ipswich, some twenty-five years ago. During his long residence here he had won the respect of all with whom he came in contact, and the entire community mourns with the children in his taking away.